Fáilte go Dún na nGall

The 31st year of the Earagail Arts Festival commences the next era of the festival's cultural evolution, continuing investment in the making of great art work, creating opportunity for a new generation of artists and fostering wider participation in the arts across the North West of Ireland. From new composition, performance and production residencies in music and spoken word, to new youth ensembles and emerging artist initiatives led by some of Donegal's most internationally recognised performers, Earagail Arts Festival 2019 lays the foundations for the support of the next champions of culture to lead us through the following thirty years. Challenging borders, inter-connecting the international and the local, this year's programme leads with a major new music commission in partnership with India's leading folk festival in Rajasthan; an international site specific theatre project across international waters; a series of spoken word, circus, comedy and special events celebrating diversity and freedom of movement and a visual arts programme from east to west reaching across bridges, islands and horizons. Within and without the festival in 2019, through 2020 and beyond, we will be recruiting our first youth ambassadors, expanding our Creative Associate programme and developing a host of new residential cultural experiences inspired by the landscape of one of the world's greatest hidden gems, County Donegal. 30 years on and we've only just started....

Agus Féile Ealaíne an Earagail á reáchtáil den 31ú huair, tá tús á chur le ré nua in éabhlóid chultúrtha na féile. Tá muid ag leanúint ar aghaidh leis an infheistíocht i saothair iontacha ealaíon, rud a chuirfidh deis ar fáil do ghlúin úr ealaíontóirí agus a chothóidh rannpháirtíocht ar bhonn níos leithne sna healaíona in Iarthuaisceart na hÉireann. Mar chuid d'Fhéile Ealaíne an Earagail 2019, cuirfear saothair nua i láthair, beidh cónaitheachtaí léirithe agus léiriúcháin sa cheol agus san fhilíocht bhéil i gceist, ensembles nua don óige agus tionscnaimh le healaíontóirí nua a spreagadh ina mbeidh lucht ealaíon cáiliúil de chuid Dhún na nGall páirteach. An sprioc a bheas ann ná tús a chur le córas tacaíochta do na healaíontóirí sin a bheas mar laochra cultúrtha againn sna tríocha bliain atá romhainn. Tá dúshlán na dteorainneacha á thabhairt ag clár na bliana seo agus nasc á chothú idir an ghné idirnáisiúnta agus an ghné áitiúil, agus ar cheann de bhuaicphointí an chlár tá coimisiún mór nua ceoil i gcomhpháirt leis an fhéile ceoil tíre is mó san Ind, in Rajasthan. Lena chois sin, beidh tionscadal amharclannaíochta idirnáisiúnta ann atá ag brath ar shuíomh faoi leith; sraith d'imeachtaí filíochta béil, sorcais agus coiméide, agus d'imeachtaí speisialta, a dhéanfaidh ceiliúradh ar an éagsúlacht agus ar shaoirse gluaiseachta; agus clár amharcealaíon ón oirthear go dtí an t-iarthar, trasna droichead, oileán agus léaslínte. Taobh istigh agus taobh amuigh den fhéile in 2019, le linn 2020 agus ina dhiaidh sin, beidh ambasadóirí óige á n-earcú againn den chéad uair, beidh an clár dar teideal Creative Associate á leathnú againn agus beidh cónaitheachtaí cultúrtha úrnua á bhforbairt againn a mbeidh tírdhreach Dhún na nGall, ceann de na seoda rúnda is iontaí ar domhan, mar spreagadh acu. Tá 30 bliain slánaithe againn ach níl an turas ach díreach tosaithe...

Earagail Arts Festival 2019 is dedicated to the memory of our dear friend and chair Dessie Larkin.

As a long-serving Board Member and Chair, Dessie Larkin was a remarkable advocate of the Earagail Arts Festival, but most importantly, a great friend and supporter of the wider Irish arts community. A proud Donegal man, he took great joy in seeing the arts thrive, especially in festival projects close to his heart, such as UNIFIED and The Fiesta. Earagail Arts Festival 2019 is dedicated to his memory.

Ireland and India share many obvious, and not so obvious, folkloric and historical links, from the origins of the Irish and Indian fiddle, to our shared colonial past. Mehrangarh meaning 'fort of the sun', originally home to the Rajput clan of Rathores (and venue to the Rajasthan International Folk Festival), stands a hundred feet in splendour on a perpendicular cliff, four hundred feet above the sky line of Jodhpur, Rajasthan. Burnished of a different stone, but equally as hauntingly beautiful and beckoning, Grianán of Aileach, Donegal's own fort of the sun, is the anointing place of the Gaelic dynasty of the Uí Neill clan.

Connecting these two iconic locations a world apart, Citadels of The Sun is a new two-part creative collaboration sharing common themes and stories that unite Irish and Indian culture through music, featuring Sarah E Cullen (Donegal fiddle, vocals), Martin Coyle (bouzouki), Paul Cutcliffe (uilleann pipes, whistles) with Asin Khan (sarangi and vocals) and Sawai Khan Manganiyar (multi-percussion and vocals).

Comprising brothers Ian Lynch (uilleann pipes, tin whistle, vocals), Daragh Lynch (vocals, guitar) alongside Cormac Mac Diarmada (fiddle) and Radie Peat (harmonium, accordion, vocals), Lankum channel a diverse set of influences and histories to create a beautifully rare thing: a songbook from and for the people.

Born of years criss-crossing Dublin's folk, squat and experimental scenes, their two albums 'Cold Old Fire' (2013, recorded under former name Lynched) and Rough Trade debut 'Between The Earth and Sky' (2017) breath new life into ancient/modern rituals with urban punk fervour, rural psycho-geography and, underpinning it all, the eternal drone of the uilleann pipes.

Lankum are the type of band you never knew you were searching for. A group of individuals united by a gang mentality whose close vocal harmonies, instrumental interplay and dramatic storytelling pin you to the seat and revive the spirit. They show that folk music can be angry, progressive and is still a vital force today.

The Donegal fiddle tradition is renowned all over the world as one of the dominant styles of the Irish fiddle tradition. Within this Donegal style there is a rich diversity of local accents.

A highlight of last year's festival, Mná na bhFidleacha, curated by Tara Connaghan and Mairéad Ní Mhaonaigh, assembled a selection of the finest female traditional fiddle players of all ages from across County Donegal.

Having lost a number of influential keepers of the tradition in the last year, such as Tommy Peoples and Vincent Campbell, this year Tara and Mairéad will gather some of the mentors of Donegal fiddle traditions from around the county to give a taste of the passing on of this great tradition and heritage.

- The Guardian

Le roinnt mhaith blianta, tá Honeyfeet i ndiaidh a bheith ina mhodh seachadta do smaointe meascán ilghnéitheach de cheoltóirí atá ag cur fúthu i Manchain. Thug duine éigin Folk-Hop agus Barrelhouse-pop air tráth, agus is féidir ciall éigin a bhaint as an doiléire sin.

Tá naoi mbliana caite ag Honeyfeet ag triall ar fhéilte agus ar amharclanna, clubanna agus páirceanna, ag meascadh le chéile ceol tíre, na gormacha agus popcheol, snagcheol agus ceol dioscó, ag brú móilíní aeir timpeall le huirlisí agus ag déanamh neart cairde.

For a good few years, Honeyfeet has been a conduit for the ideas and expressions of an exotic mixture of Manchester-based musicians. Someone once called it folk-hop and barrelhouse-pop, and that's just vague enough to make sense.

Honeyfeet have spent the past nine years tearing around festival stages and theatres, clubs and fields melting down folk, blues and pop, jazz and disco, pushing air molecules around with instruments and making friends in the process.

Peggy Seeger needs little introduction, being a totally unique artist who has carved a special place in the folk revival of both the UK and the USA. Now in her 80s, her light burns as brightly as ever, with legendary live performances that might include an unaccompanied traditional ballad, followed by an anecdote from her remarkable life, before launching into a topical song about drugs, war, hormones, politicians, unions, women, love or ecology.

As Ewan MacColl's partner and muse, she was the inspiration for MacColl's classic 'The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face' (the title of her much-praised recent memoir), yet this is a woman who has consistently followed her own path with passion and vigour.

Born and reared in Inishowen, Grace is a passionate supporter of the rich singing tradition of the peninsula. Her songs and style come from time shared with older singers and friends such as Dan McGonigle, Jimmy Houten and the James Eoghain clan.

It's just a year since Ceol le Chéile - The Donegal Choir of Ages made its debut performance with a full house at An Grianán Theatre under their charismatic Choral Director, Veronica McCarron, and Daniel O'Donnell as their special guest. Since then, the choir has performed extensively throughout the county including at Glenveagh Castle, as well as community venues in Ballyshannon, Stranorlar and Glenswilly among others. This very special choir is an intergenerational vocal ensemble made up of over 100 older people, children and young people, male and female, from all walks of life in Donegal.

An initiative of Donegal County Council's Social Inclusion Unit, the project was conceived last year as part of the Donegal Age Friendly Programme, with the aim of promoting social inclusion and developing stronger relationships between older people, children and young people.

For this special Earagail Arts Festival concert, Ceol le Chéile will be joined by one of Donegal's most iconic singers, Moya Brennan of Clannad, who will perform three songs from the band's classic repertoire, with the choir. Their programme for the evening will also feature a wonderful selection of modern songs, as well as material from the Irish Tradition, including uplifting works by Rogers and Hammerstein, Bob Dylan, U2, Charles Harris and Ed Sheeran.

An Grianán Theatre and Parrabbola (UK) present Shakespeare's The Winter's Tale as an exciting, large scale, immersive production in both Donegal and Derry, crossing the borders, the traditions and the waters of the north west.

Ultimately it explores conflict, reconciliation and borders. Two Kingdoms, Sicilia and Bohemia divided by an ocean; two kings, raised together, but at odds without reason, a wronged queen; a lost princess, prison sentences, tragic deaths, bears and ocean voyages.

Shaking the Tale is part of Shaking the Walls, a project co-funded by the Creative Europe Programme of the European Union. The project is led by Gdański Teatr Szekspirowski (Poland). The other partners are Parrabbola (UK), Cooltour Ostrava (Czech Republic) and Ratatam (Iceland). As well as Creative Europe, co-funders / production partners for Shaking the Tale include Donegal County Council, Arts Council of Ireland and Earagail Arts Festival.

Léargas ar shaol agus stair teaghlaigh triúr fear óg agus iad ag éirí aníos sa Chúlóg i dtuaisceart Bhaile Átha Cliath. Cad é a mhúnlaigh iad agus a mheall i dtreo na coireachta iad? Sa dráma nua seo, dirítear ar chúrsaí aicme, reiligiúin agus féiniúlachta agus tá iniúchadh grinn, ionraic le fáil ann ar an tsicé Éireannach agus léiriú ar ár gciontachtaí choiteann, ár rúin agus ár bhfabhtanna.

Tá John Connors ar dhuine de mhóraisteoirí ár linne. Tá aird idirnáisiúnta gnóthaithe aige as a ról mar Patrick Ward sa tsraith choireachta Love/Hate agus as a ról in Cardboard Gangsters, a ghnóthaigh gradam don aisteoir ab fhearr dó ag Gradaim Scannán agus Teilifíse na hÉireann in 2017.

Forbraíodh an dráma seo mar chuid de Show In A Bag, tionscnamh forbartha ealaíontóirí de chuid Fhéile Imeachach Bhaile Átha Cliath, Fishamble: The New Play Company agus Institiúid Teatair na hÉireann, tionscnamh a bhfuil sé mar sprioc aige acmhainní a chur ar fáil do lucht scríofa drámaí agus aisteoirí.

Follow the lives and family histories of three young men as they grow up in Coolock on Dublin's northside. What shapes them and entices them to a life of crime? Examining issues of class, religion and identity, this new play is an unflinching exploration of the Irish psyche, bringing our collective guilt, secrets and flaws to the surface.

John Connors is one of the leading Irish actors of his generation, receiving international acclaim for his role as Patrick Ward in the Irish crime drama series Love/Hate and for Cardboard Gangsters in which he won best actor at the 2017 Irish Film & Television Awards (IFTAs).

Developed as part of Show In A Bag, an artist development initiative of Dublin Fringe Festival, Fishamble: The New Play Company and Irish Theatre Institute to resource theatre makers and actors.

A hilarious water charges inspired musical comedy!

Wicked King Enda has kidnapped Anna Livia the Water Maiden and all the water in the village well has dried up.

It's a race against time for our unlikely coalition of heroes - Robin B'Stard (Robin Hood's illegitimate, slightly less well-known half brother), Will Scarletforya, Scarecrow Mick and Friar Tourettes, with some help from Turfcutter Ming and the ancient wizard Michael D. Can they defeat Enda and his henchmen Simon and Leo, rescue the maiden and restore the water supply before the shadowy Mr Redacted gets his water meters in place?

Remember - there's only room for one Robin B'Stard in this town!

An Grianán Theatre

Aiken Promotions in association with Earagail Arts Festival are delighted to present Jim Gaffigan's only headline show in Ireland this year.

Jim is a four-time Grammy-nominated comedian, actor, writer, producer, two-time New York Times best-selling author, Emmy-winning touring performer, and multi-platinum-selling recording artist. He is known around the world for his unique brand of humour and will this year release his unprecedented seventh stand-up special, Quality Time, with Amazon making history as their first original comedy special. On the silver screen, 2019 will also be Gaffigan's biggest year with an astonishing ten films scheduled for release.

Jim will be joined on the night by Aoife O'Connor who was born and raised in Letterkenny. Aoife's comedy comes from a life lived in the middle of nowhere. From the tragedy vampires you meet day to day (older women who LOVE misery), to your typical Donegal wake, Aoife shares her experiences of mild countryside trauma with a touch of confetti on top.

Commencing in Tooban Hide, we have timetabled each event so that you can travel either on foot or car (max distance is 4km) from hide to hide, taking in the breathtaking views of the landscape and wildlife. The capacity of each hide is very limited so we ask you to kindly be patient in gaining access. Please respect the ecology of the area, leave no trace!

In an era of increasing isolationism and restrictions on individual and artistic liberty, Earagail Arts Festival in partnership with An Anchor Ensemble has commissioned eight artists, writers and broadcasters from Ireland and the UK to perform short readings examining the theme of migration and freedom of movement in each of the four bird hides along the path of the long gone tracks of the Derry to Letterkenny railway line.

Each of the hides will host two readings from artists from Ireland and the UK examining the theme of migration and freedom of movement.

Artists include Stephen James Smith, Will Carruthers, Stephen McCauley, Phil Ruddock, Abby Olivera, Niall Ó Mianáin, Dr Liam Campbell plus work by writer and co-curator JP Conaghan, read by Francis Harkin.

Le linn an léirithe amharclannaíochta seo Arán & Im, déanann an scríbhneoir taistil agus craoltóir iomráiteach Manchán Magan arán taois ghéir a ullmhú thar 70 bomaite agus, ag an am chéanna, tugann sé léargas ar iontais na Gaeilge. Tráchtann sé ar na focail chumhachtacha a bhaineann leis an tírdhreach, ar théarmaí iomaí agus léirstine, agus ar an iliomad nathanna a thugann beocht do chumhacht agus mistéir an nádúir.

Is ceiliúradh é seo ar an teanga, ar an talamh agus ar an bhia áitiúil, agus is deis é don lucht féachana arán taois ghéir traidisiúnta atá díreach bÁCáilte a ghearradh agus im a bheas díreach maistrithe acu féin a chur air.

Arán & Im is a theatrical performance in which well-known travel writer and broadcaster Manchán Magan bakes sourdough bread for 70 minutes while offering insights into the wonders of the Irish language – exploring potent words of landscape, terms of intuition and insight, and the many phrases that bring to life the mysterious glory of our natural world.

It is a celebration of language, land and local food, with freshly-baked traditional sourdough bread for the audience to slice and spread with butter they churn themselves from Irish cream.

Directed by Tom Creed. Designed by Tom de Paor. Produced and presented by Manchán Magan.

Tá Féile Shoilse Thoraí ar ais agus aird á tarraingt aici an athuair ar chultúr saibhir Thoraí, dún ársa na bhFomórach, dúiche Bhaloir na Súile Nimhe! Le cois imeachtaí saor in aisce don teaghlach, cluichí traidisiúnta agus barbaiciú, beidh Hothouse Flowers i measc na n-aíonna a bheas le cluinstitín ag ceolchoirmeacha sa Chlub Sóisialta míchlúiteach.

Eolas breise le fáil ag www.oileanthorai.com

Féile Shoilse Thoraí highlights the rich culture of Tory Island, the ancient stronghold of the Formorians and the land of Balor of The Evil Eye! Aside from the free family events, traditional games and bbq, Hothouse Flowers will lead the concerts at the infamous Social Club.

Clady
Clady Hall Community Centre

At Clady an extraordinary 17th century bridge traverses the River Finn where it forms the border between Tyrone and Donegal.

As part of the annual village festival, and using the river and bridge as a creative location and metaphor to address the issue of free movement, artists from a range of disciplines create a day of imaginative conversation, performance and participation for everyone.

Birds, sounds, wind, fish, insects and imagination cross borders freely!

Expect the unexpected!

This exhibition is the culmination of a 3 year residency facilitated by the Regional Cultural Centre, Letterkenny where the artist split his time between residing on Inis Bó Finne and the mainland. Cathal McGinley is a significant player in the county's art scene but what sets him apart from many other practitioners is his intuitive artistic practice. His methodology combines heritage, folklore, dinnsheanchas and a love of his language and the island community. This exhibition is diverse, comprising of paintings, drawings, sculpture and film. Cathal's work is attuned to 'dúchas' – it is timeless and utterly contemporary; simultaneously ancient and modern.

Cathal McGinley is 'of' Inis Bó Finne; he was not born on the island but was raised in Magheroarty overlooking his family's home place. He went on to study Fine Art in Sligo and later completed his MA at the University of Ulster. Throughout this formal education Cathal maintained a 'grá (love)' for his home place and its people and customs.

This assimilation has happened over millennia, handed down and down and down, eventually reaching this artist who digests it and makes it visible through his own prism. His sensibility is that of an islander and this unique perspective is demonstrated in this exhibition.

'21st Century Ireland in 21 Artworks' is curated by Cristín Leach and looks at the island of Ireland since the turn of the century. All the artworks included in this exhibition were made in Ireland, about Ireland, and by Irish artists since 2000. Inspired by a series of articles created for RTE.ie, the show features a wide-ranging collection of urgent and important contemporary artworks, including internationally important artists such as Willie Doherty, Amanda Coogan, Corban Walker, Mick O'Dea, Dorothy Cross, and Aideen Barry. There are paintings, photographs, videoworks, sculptures, performances, and installations about home, money, bodies, risk, mental health, society, politics and more.

Dónal Mac Polin's collection of watercolours and illustrations, kindly donated to the Donegal County Archives, document and highlight the splendour of our traditional boats and the disappearing boat-building tradition around the Irish coast based on extensive maritime history research. The exhibition, celebrating a variety of traditional boats and Donegal variations including currachs, drontheims, yawls, cots, hookers, punts, flats and skiffs, captures the craftsmanship, skills and intricacies of Ireland's traditional boats and boat-building traditions.

Tory Island holds a rich, rich store of culture, heritage and language. Often, when talking with members of the Island community, one is not sure if the conversation located in the contemporary or the ancient. Time on Tory is not necessarily linear, it weaves and leaps from day to century to week to year – perhaps a conducive ‘space’ then to make art.

The island has been associated with painting since the late 1950's when Derek Hill famously gifted islander James Dixon some paints and so began a new island enterprise from which evolved the ‘Tory School of Painting’. This island visual expression has become synonymous with ‘primitive’ painting and whilst this is true for most Tory Island painters it is not specific to all.

Post James Dixon and after the sad passing of the King of Tory, An Rí Patsy Dan Rogers, last year, the painting endures as both contemporaries of Patsy Dan and newer island artists continue to make art upon a formidable ‘rock in the middle of the ocean’. This exhibition demonstrates the breadth and range of painting from artists such as Anton Meenan, Micky John Rogers, Daniel Cullen, Noreen Meenan, Majella Cullen to name but a few.

Ní hamháin go bhfuil sé mí-oiriúnach an lipéad 'Primitibheach' a úsáid i gcás Scoil Phéintéireachta Thoraí ach nuair a dhéanann muid amhlaidh teipeann orainn staidéar a dhéanamh ar na miondifríochtaí dúchasacha a fhágann gur ealaíontóir é an t-ealaíontóir oileáin a bhfuil stíl faoi leith aige/aici, fiú mura bhfuil an stíl sin primitibheach. Dealraíonn sé go mbíonn samhlaíocht agus taithí faoi leith i gceist sa dóigh a bhfeiceann muintir an oileáin iad féin ar an domhan seo agus ina ndúiche féin. Tá saothair ealaíne áirithe ann a léiríonn an 'íogaireacht' seo: bíonn bun na spéire rud beag lúbtha, na cóstaí cruinn, an talamh cothromaithe nó sínte, agus is féidir le peirspictíocht éin a bheith i gceist nó peirspictíocht a bhfuil tábhacht nó éirim 360 céim ag baint léi. Sa tréimhse atá romhainn, déanfar diantaghaide sa Ghailearaí maidir leis an teoiric seo agus cuirfear tús leis an turas le seoladh an taispeántais seo.

To label island artists such as the Tory School of Painting as 'Primitive' is not only a misnomer but precludes the exploration of the possible indigenous nuances that mark an island artist as distinct but not necessarily Primitive. How an islander sees him/herself on this earth and in their place seems to demonstrate a possible exceptional imagination and experience. Certain artworks describe this 'sensitivity'; horizons are slightly bent, coasts are rounded, the land is flattened or stretched and the perspective can be that of a bird or have 360 degree significance or intelligence. An Gailearaí will conduct research that interrogates this theory in depth and the launch of this exhibition will begin this journey.
